General Meeting Notes
By Judy Chamberlain

EATON COUNTY GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY

GENERAL MEETING

March 15, 2017

Shirley Hodges led us in a genealogy Bingo game during the social time. She had a Bingo grid with various questions. Then we had to find people who could answer the questions and have them sign the square where the question was located. It was a nice way to get to know other people.

The president, Chuck Chamberlain, called the meeting to order at 7:00. He welcomed everyone and led in the Pledge of Allegiance.

There were 15 people in attendance, including one first time visitor who also joined the Society that night. Welcome Sandi Vealey.

Marcy Cousino gave an update on the Newspaper Project. They have ten more films to be sent to New York, which will bring the total to 110. The Charlotte Library has masters of some newspaper films, but a few of them are scratched or deteriorating. There is a company in Midland who is willing to try to restore the damaged films.

Announcements:

The Family History Seminar in East Lansing will be held on April 22, 2017. Registration is available on their website, www.Lansingfhc.org. This is a free seminar with numerous workshops.

The speaker for the April meeting will be Cindy Grostick. Her topic will be "We Want You—U.S. Military Records for the World Wars.

Shirley Hodges presented a very interesting program on "Little Known Facts about the Census". This included information on other census records besides the U.S. Federal Census.

Respectfully Submitted,

Judy Chamberlain, Recording Secretary

March General Meeting

Little Known Facts About The Census
By Shirley Hodges

Shirley gave a fantastic program about the census records at our opening 2017 March general meeting! During the Social Hour, she played a Bingo game where we had to look for people to fill in our Bingo sheets and a few examples were "Has Been to 3 ECGS Seminars", Has published a family history", Is related to a President", etc. The first two Bingo-ers were Harold Holcomb and Dianna Emerson and they each won a book! We all had fun walking around asking each other questions!

DID YOU KNOW???

- U.S. Federal Census Records - it is important to pay careful attention to the date the information was taken. A person may have died after the census was taken, but would still be included in the records. The "official" dates are:

- o 1790 First Monday in August (2nd)
- o 1800 First Monday in August (4th)
- o 1810 First Monday in August (6th)
- o 1820 First Monday in August (7th)
- o 1830-1900 June 1
- o 1910 April 15
- o 1920 January 1
- o 1930 April 2 (in Alaska began on 01 October 1929)
- o 1940 April 1

- There are Special census records available for research. These include the following:

- o Agriculture Schedules - give detailed information on farms
- o DDD Supplemental Schedules 1-7 (Dependent, Defective and Delinquent Schedules) - These were taken in 1880 and list Homeless Children; Deaf Mutes; Blind; Insane Asylum Inhabitants; Idiots; Pauper and Indigent Inhabitants; and Prisoners.
- o Manufacturing Schedules - These were taken between the years 1810-1820 (1810 is largely lost) and 1850-1880. They list small businesses and merchants.
- o Mortality Schedules - These are available for most states for the years 1850-1880. They list people who died during the 12 months PRIOR to the U.S. Census day.
- o Slave Schedules - These were taken between 1850 and 1860 and list the owner's name and number of slaves. Names of slaves are rarely listed.
- o Social Statistics Schedules - These contain trade societies, lodges, clubs, newspapers, churches, and cemeteries with cities.
- o Surviving Soldiers, Sailors, Marines and Widows census—This was done in 1890.

For more information on these, check with Shirley Hodges.

Census Records by Shirley Gage Hodges

Census records have always been a great tool for the genealogist. In the U.S. they are released after 72 years so we eagerly await the release of each census. Our descendants will not have some of the advantages that we have enjoyed. The most recent census was taken in 2010. There were only 10 questions asked. Our descendants will not be able to learn a lot of information about us from this census. The questions are as follows:

1. How many people were living or staying in this house, apartment or mobile home on April 1, 2010?
2. Were there any additional people staying here April 1, 2010 that you did not include in Question 1?
3. Is this house, apartment, or mobile home owned by you, or someone in the house with a mortgage? Owned without payment of rent?
4. What is your telephone number (number to call if an answer is unclear)?
5. Names of the individuals living in the home.
6. Sex of the individual inhabitants of the home.
7. Ages and dates of birth of the individual inhabitants of the home.
8. Are any of the individuals living in the home of Hispanic, Latino or Spanish origin?
9. The race of the individual inhabitants of the home.
10. Do any of the individuals live or stay somewhere else?

We will, of course, have some good information on this census but it lacks the possibility of learning lots of juicy tidbits about individuals. In the past years we have learned some very interesting things about our ancestors. Some were fascinating and some really made us cringe.

One of the things that I have found fascinating was the tendency among females to be inconsistent about their ages. As someone has said "women have been chiseling on their ages ever since the stone age." Apparently this was fairly common.

The historical records revealed some quirks. For instance, Abraham Lincoln's wife, Mary, reported growing only seven years older between the 1850 and the 1860 census.

(Census Year: 1850; Census Place: Springfield, Sangamon Co., Illinois; Roll: M432_127; Page: 120; Image: 243.)

16728	Abraham Lincoln	40	m
	Mary Lincoln	28	f
	Robert Lincoln	7	m

(Census Year: 1860; Springfield, Sangamon, Illinois; Roll: M653_226; Page: 140; Image: 139.)

1002989	Abraham Lincoln	51	m
	Mary "	35	f
	Robert S "	16	m
	Willie W "	9	m
	Thomas "	7	m

Census records include a wealth of information that is obviously useful to researchers, as well as hidden clues that are less obvious but equally useful.

It is difficult to construct our family's histories with the brief entries that we find. When I look at the census I am always humbled by how little I will actually ever know about the lives categorized in the census records of long ago. It is always a challenge to try and find out more about those lives, whether in little snippets found within the census itself or in other sources that they have lead me to.

In future articles we will examine some of the other types of things that we learn from the census.

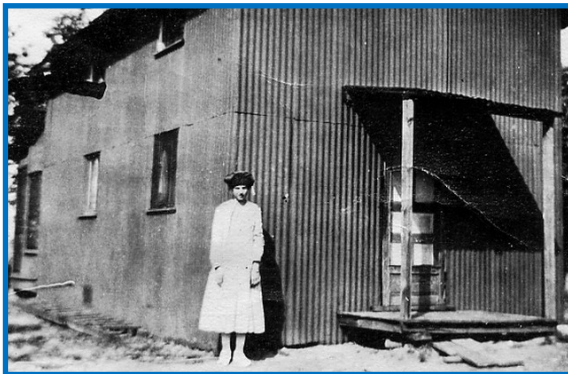

Until next time :)

Probate Packets

The website is updated about once a month with the list of probate packets that have been scanned (www.miegs.org/Files/ProbatePacketScanned.pdf). There are now about 13,950 names that are scanned and we are scanning the "R" probate packet folders.

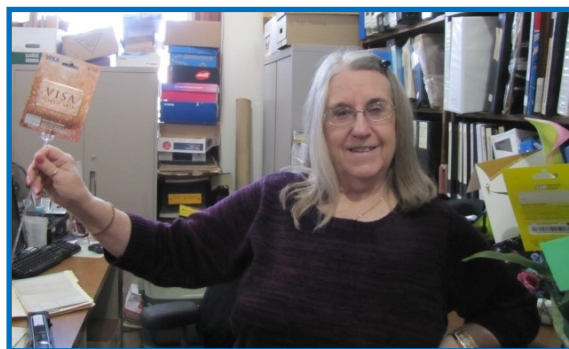

Some of us went to the 6th Annual Charlotte Generosity Fund and at this event, there was a contest for non-profits. We won a beautiful plant with several gift cards. Barb Fulton brought these in for us one morning! Thanks so much to the Charlotte Generosity Fund and to Barb for bringing them in!

This was a great time to have a volunteer drawing, so that afternoon, we gathered all of the volunteer tickets and shook them up. Marcy drew a ticket.

Sue was the winner! She had fun looking through the several gift cards and deciding on the Visa Card.

If you believe there is a scanned probate packet you want to look at and you are a member, email us at ecgsprobates@gmail.com and request access to the file or files. If you are a non-member, see our Send A Request Page at <http://www.miegs.org/SendRequest.shtml>.

Family Reunions

by Shirley Gage Hodges

It is getting that time of year when we start to think about planning our family reunions. I hope you are making the most out of your family reunions.

In addition to the joy of seeing all the family once again at a happy occasion think about all the things that you can do that will further your family research. Be sure and take notes on the family stories that will be told and retold again in future years. There is no better time than a family reunion to undertake a little intelligence gathering.

I have always said that most of my great finds have been because of Divine Intervention rather than my talent. A few years ago we were invited to a family reunion on my husband's side of the family. It was really quite ironic that we were attending. I had posted a query about Clarence's family several years before. One of Clarence's cousins called us in response to that query. I had a wonderful conversation with his cousin who was living in Florida at the time. She said that they were flying up to MI in the next couple of days. She asked me if we were planning on attending the Welch Reunion that was being held the next week-end in Michigan. We had not known that the family had an annual reunion. We went and my husband met 58 cousins that day.

Each year they have an elephant sale to cover the expenses. The first year I printed out 2 copies of the research that we had done on his family. They seemed to be the hit of the sale and we got several more of the family interested in tracing their family history. Since then I have discovered that framed family pictures are also a real hit.

Many times we think that our family members are not interested in the old family history. Some people are just afflicted that way I have discovered. I like to make place mats using family pictures, note cards and things of that nature and take with me. It is amazing how you can get people interested in learning just a little more about the family.

Next time you get an invitation to a reunion plan to attend and see if you can be the one that will make the event just a little more meaningful. Don't just preserve your family heritage, share it.

Clarence and his cousins

Origins, History & Meanings of Female Names

1920

Lyle French donated these newspaper clippings to ECGS from a newspaper series on the origins, history, and meaning of girl's names series published in 1919 and 1920. They are stored in VF.470.

Eleanor

ELEANOR.

Eleanor, signifying light, is derived from Helios, the sun-god, who, according to Greek mythological legend, drove his flaming chariot around the universe day by day. Helios furnished the Teutonic adjective meaning bright or clear, which eventually evolved Helen and later Ellen, through abolition of the aspirate.

The Latinized form of Ellen was Elena, a feminine name that won great popularity in Italy. In the Romanesque population of Provence, the name became Alienor. This so seized upon poetic fancy that the name received all the homage the Languedoc could pay. Aliena was the next step in the evolution and the first famous woman so called was termed Eleanor by the French king who married her and it was she who became the grim Eleanor of the dagger bowl, the Aquitanian grandmother who bandies words with Constance of Brittany in Shakespeare's "King John."

Her daughter carried the name to Castille, where she became Leonor. Her descendant, the daughter of San Fernando, brought the name back to England as "our good Queen Eleanor" and gave it renown which largely counteracted the bad impression left by the Provincial Alienor, wife of Henry III. Eleanor was a popular royal name under the Plantagenets. It was later spelled Elinor and sometimes Ellinor. Dame Eleanor Davies gave the name a quaint notoriety by constructing out of her name the prophetic anogram: "Reveal O David." But her contention was disproved by Archbishop Laud, who showed that the words also spelled "Never so mad a ladie." Italy calls the name Eleanor; Germany makes her Eleanor, and Ireland Eileen.

Eleanor's gem is the jacinth, which is a talisman against accident or disease. It is said to pale in color at the approach of danger, and is proof against lightning. Sunday is Eleanor's lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

Emily

From the Latin gens Aemilius is derived the quaint simplicity of Emily—or so it is believed. Emily's origin is a trifle perplexing since some hold that it is from the mythical Amal of the Gothic, but the latter contention is not definite. Several obscure saints bore the name of Aemilius or Aemilianus. Emilji was much used in Russia as a masculine name.

In Spain, a hermit, St. Aemilianus, was known as St. Milhan and thence the name spread to Italy where it became Emilio. Due to Rousseau's educational work, Emile became popular in France. The feminine form had been forgotten when Boccaccio wrote his "Teseide" and called the heroine Emilia. It was at once translated, or imitated in all languages. The Teutons called her Amalie and Amalie of Mansfield and Amalie of Wurtemberg were among the famous women who bore the name.

The daughter of George II brought it to England and was called Princess Emily. Straightway it became prevalent in Europe where it was often, but erroneously, confused with Amelfa, Amy, and Emma, which have far different origin. Strange to say, no well-known saint was named Emily and even De la Roche's beautiful design of the queenly Sainte Amelie was intended as a compliment to the Queen of Louis Philippe, an Amalie which came through Naples from Austria and does not belong to Emily at all. The French have called the name Emelie and both the English and Italians have an Emilia.

Everyone is familiar with Shelley's verses to the lovely and unfortunate Lady Emilia imprisoned in the convent of St. Anne, Pisa:

"I never thought before my death to see
Youth's vision thus made perfect. Emily,
I love thee; though the world by no thin name
Will hide that love from its unvalued shame.
Would we two had been twins of the same mother.
Or, that the name my heart lent to another
Could be a sister's bond for her and thee,
Blending two beams of one eternity!"

Emily's stone is the onyx, but curiously enough it is not always a lucky gem and should be worn with care since it cools the ardor of love, provokes discord, and separates lovers. Yet to dream of only signifies a happy marriage. Friday is Emily's lucky day and 6 her lucky number.

Dear Mrs Hall,
I hope you're feeling better.
I want to especially thank you for the Birthday card and money (a little late star paper).
I had been praying about needing a dollar for bus fare to my assignment - and your dollar was a real answer to prayer.
It just shows how the Lord takes care of His children - unfaithful though we are.

I wish I could come see you - but I'm looking forward to seeing you this summer.
I'm praying for you.

Love in Him,
John Abraham

Please
forgive me for not writing sooner.

I talked with Winnie yesterday & she said you were still in the hospital. Hope you are feeling better by now. Maybe we will have some warm weather when you can go home, then you will get well faster if you can get out in the sun & fresh air. It is bright & pretty out this morning but Oh! so cold. I was so blamed disappointed yesterday morning to get up & see all that snow. I felt just like hibernating. I did go July. Even though it's cold sometimes. Remember the time, 3 bathing beauties & had their picture taken July 4th & were all covered with goose pimples? La! La! It still makes me shiver. My cat is making so much noise scrubbing I can't think. Well chin up Emma Hope you will soon be out of there. Love Raul & Aton.

Dear Mrs. Crall,
So sorry to hear of your illness & missing you at Church. Hope you will soon be well again. Best wishes for a speedy recovery.

Dear Mrs. Crall, I sure hope you are feeling better. I sent you a card but missed it to the insurance hospital and I was afraid you didn't get it. I wonder how you are every day and would like to see you but thought it would be better to wait until you felt like coming back. I plan on going to the Council of Church women Monday with Mrs. Bittel. I am looking forward to it & hope I will meet to one before. See you soon.

Ways You Can Help to Volunteer at (or for) ECGS

Please note: We appreciate any help we receive! We will never pressure you to help us! We only ask if you have volunteered for room duty and you cannot make it, call (phone numbers provided) us and let us know to get coverage.

Room Volunteers: Room volunteers are here to help people who come in to research. While some of our room volunteers actually help do the research, this is not a requirement. The main tasks are to answer the phone and guide the researchers to our various areas they can research.

Probate Packet Scanning: This is an on-going project that meets regularly at the ECGS room to scan probate packets on Tuesday afternoons. However, anyone can scan when the room is open.

Indexing and/or proofreading at home: Using scanned images, we can show you how to index and/or proofread at your own leisure at home.

Mini Take-Home projects: This is a brand new type of project we are trying. People have taken home several projects and we will see how that goes.

Special Projects: Possibly set up an area in our room that will have special projects that you can work on when you come in. Again... new idea to try! More to come on this.
