Material for Publication:

The Eaton County Quest welcomes manuscripts of Eaton County material for proposed publication. All manuscripts should be sent to: The Editor, P.O. Box 337, Charlotte, MI 48813-0337

The manuscript should be typed on standard-sized paper and have the author's name on each page and numbered. A cover letter, giving permission from the author to publish the material in the Quest, should accompany the manuscript. Restrictions of any kind may not be placed on material to be published.

The Editor welcomes manuscripts on computer disk, in Microsoft Word, Microsoft Works. Only 3 1/2" size disks can be accepted. Manuscripts on disk will not be published without accompanying hardcopy of the data to assure correct transfer of data.

When sending photocopies of original old manuscripts, such as handwritten Bible records, send a typed transcript from which we can work. Writing is much clearer on the original in your possession than on a photocopy. The Editorial staff will make the final decision on material to be published.

Every effort is made to present authentic material, but the Eaton County Genealogical Society cannot be held responsible for the accuracy or the publishing rights of the material furnished by contributors. All material is published with the permission of the contributor.

ECGS Members:

We have just finished another fabulous fundraiser. ECGS had a booth headed up by Betty Polhamus, during Frontier Days where we sold hot and cold beverages, snack items and bake goods. The weather was very hot and so water was the big seller each day. The one item everyone wanted to buy and we didn't have were pies. So all you pie baking experts, get ready, next year we may just ask you to make a couple to sell. Thanks to all the volunteers who helped make the fundraiser a success by supplying both snack and bake goods to sell. Thanks also to those who helped with setup, selling and cleaning. It was truly appreciated.

We would like to express our congratulations to Shirley Hodges for receiving the Eaton County Heritage Award for her commitment to genealogy for the past 25 years. This was the first time the award was given to a genealogist. That says a lot for Shirley and her accomplishments. Congrats Shirley !!!!

We have a bus trip to Allen County Library in Ft. Wayne planned for Saturday, October 19th. The cost will be $25. If you have never gone, you should join us. They are ranked as one of the top 4 libraries in the US for genealogy materials. Sign-up forms are available in the room if you would like to join us that day.

We also have planned a dinner/show trip to Turkeyville on Saturday, October 26th. They will be performing South Pacific. It should be a real nice time to visit with one another and then watch the play. The cost will be $31 (if we have 10-19 people) or $29 (if we have over 20 people). Let Shirley Hodges know if you are interested in going. It will be fun.

This past May, Election of officers was held during the membership meeting. The results of the election are as follows: Susan Polhamus, President; Shirley Hodges, Vice President; Vicki Dukes, Recording Secretary; Barb Smith, Membership Secretary; Drouscella Halsey, Corresponding Secretary and Quest Editor; Steve Smith, Treasurer; Sharlene Thuma, Librarian; Betty Goostrey, Historian; Louis Haley, Computers; Ed Dunning Publicity; Clarence Hodges and Betty Polhamus, Michigan Genealogical Council Delegates: Shirley Hodges, Federation of Genealogical Societies Delegate.

FYI: Also at our May membership meeting, a motion was made to set aside the bylaw's 2-year term limitation of the President, once again, to allow for a fourth year of serving. We will be looking for a volunteer to run as President next year. Please give it some thought...new blood leads to new ideas and keeps the society from getting stagnant.

We have some great programs lined up for this Fall. Hope to see you if possible. Happy researching...

Did You Know.....? Although Michigan was refused as bounty land for Revolutionary war veterans, some of them came to Michigan at the time when Oakland county was being opened and settle in that vicinity.

Sunday night finds me and mine all well, I received yous last night, and am glad to hear that you are well, O how I wish I was there with you but as I am not you must try and visit Joe (us) both

Sister Anna poor Nan has come home to die, she is very poorly

Addie was confined last Friday but her boy was dead, John Sheffield baby was buried today

Mrs. Sue Anderson has a cancer in her left breast and Webber will cut it out tomorrow, I believe that is all the news for this time Anna

Dear sister, please give my love to Charity and tell her that I have lots to tell her if we ever live to see each other, do tell her to come and see me soon

Anna we are very sorry that you are having my trouble with Rogers about the place, it is late and I must close for this time hoping to hear from you soon give love to all the good folks and believe me as ever your dear Sister Jenie

Do tell Jasper to come and see poor Nan, and that soon

From another Page: A Veteran Gone Seventy-Three Years a Methodist Thomas Cowan died in Scipio, Cayuga Co., N.Y., Dec. 15th, 1860, in the 84th year of his age.

born of Wesleyan He was Methodist parents in Ireland; Oct. 28th, 1777. He was converted to God when he was but ten years of age, and immediately united with the Wesleyan society. He emigrated with his parents to this country in the and settled in 1793. vear Washington Co., N.Y., where he united with the Methodist Episcopal; Church, of which he remained a member until the hour of his death. Hence he had been a member of the Methodist Church seventy-three years. In 1803 he left Washington Co., alone, to find a home for himself and parents, in what was then called "the far west." He arrived at what is now the city of Auburn, at that time consisting of a log tavern, and two other log shanties. The next day after his arrival, he went on to the place of his late residence, where he remained until the day of his death, being fifty-seven years. He was twice married; first to Charity Hinman, April 8th, 1806, and by whom he had six children; she died March 22d, 1817; and next to Sally Russel, Oct.2d, 1817, by whom he had twelve children; who also died some sixteen years in advance of him. Fifteen of his children survive Twelve of whom were him. mourners at his funeral.

His Character.

His characteristics as a man; were marked. He evinced great energy in his business transactions. Neat, saving, and economical he had a place for everything and everything in its place, and scrupulously prompt in all his engagements. Hence he succeeded in accummulating a competency of worldly substance. Yet he was remarkably free from selfishness. "The wages of him that was hired, did seldom abide with him all night until the morning." The poor always found in him a sympathizing friend, and were not turned empty away from his door. He was a steady supporter of the gospel and its institutions.

An Incident

The following incident may at once illustrate his character in part, and also the providential care of God for his children.

In the year 1816 or 1817, (known as the cold season) there lived a short distance from his residence an old man with his family, whose name He was a holy, was Kellogg. devoted servant of God, and a local in the M.E. Church. In consequence of the hard times, he was brought into straightened One evening he circumstances. found that they were reduced to a part of a loaf of bread, and not enough meal for breakfast. They divided the bread, ate it and retired to rest. The old man arose early in the morning and called in all the family read a portion of God's word, and kneeled and poured out his soul to God in fevent prayer, pleading the precious promises. His faith took hold of the arm of the Omnipotent. He arose from his knees in holy triumph, and declared with loud and exultant voice, "The Lord will provide."

Meanwhile, father Cowan the day previous had with his team gone through the neighborhood, unbeknown, to the local preacher, and collected flour, meat, and vegetables, sufficient to last the family several weeks. Father Cowan had silently reached the door just as the suppliant family bowed in prayer and he was no uninterested auditor of that "fevent and effectual prayer." Father Kellogg concluded- father Cowan and being knocked. welcomed in, he said, "father K., it is pretty hard times, and we thought you might be getting short of provisions, so I have brought you some that I collected, yesterday." The old man was guite overcome. He wept and praised God for his deliverance in time of need. Jehovah Jireh.

Religious Character

His conversion was clear, though young. He was remarkable for his - - - in attending the means of grace. was a great lover of class-meetings. When yet a boy, his class-mates would anxiously watch for the coming of the little boy, whose fervent manner in describing the love of Jesus to his soul, added peculiar interest to the class-meeting. He was humble and fervent, and possessed more than an ordinary gift in prayer. The Sabbath was sacred with him, and unless sickness prevented, always found him early at the house of God. The Scriptures were his delight and habitual study. To these he added quite a collection of religious books. The later years of his life were mostly spent in reading. The Bible and Wesley's sermons were nearest and familiar to his heart .-- There, on the day of his funeral, lay these choice companions of the aged pilgrim on the stand, just as he left them but the day before.

The day previous to his death, he walked out, as he was want, to his barn, as well as usual. The next morning he did not rise as usual, feeling somehwhat unwell. He said to his daughter who visited his bed anxiously that he would lie a while longer. She left his room and returned in a few moments, and found that the immortal spirit had taken its flight to its long desired His funeral was largely home. attended, and his remains deposited by the side of the members of his family in the old Scipio meetings house burying ground, where sleep many of the early Methodists. The occasion was sought to be improved by the writer from 2 Tim. 4: 6-8.

How precious and instructive the lessons which, such a life and such a death inculcate. From early childhood to patriarchal years, religion was enjoyed and illustrated-proving that it is "profitable to all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come." Shall any among his surviving child fail of meeting that dear parent whose memory this notice any help to perpetnate? W. Reddy Auburn, Jan. 22, 1861

Charlotte, Michigan is pretty small. A 1954 telephone directory is 1/8th inch thick. I never learned many of the streets. We were disciplined to never go off our block so that restricted my knowledge about the streets.

Our street was Warren Avenue - #313. I've never forgotten it. The school and Grandma's house were on Henry Street. We've learned that our Grandparent's home has since been torn down to make a parking lot for the High School and Jr. High. Sad but is was very old.

The Maple Hill Cernetery was on the north edge of town, and it was pretty and very peaceful. We used to go every Memorial Day to take Grandma to put flowers on her parent's graves and "say a prayer".

I have a baby sister buried there who was born dead - before me. It always made me sad and I always wondered what she would have been like.

The doctor said it might have been caused from pumping the giant pipe organ at the Congregational Church, and he advised Mother to not do it anymore after the 5th month. It made her sad to talk about it because she loved the big organ so much, and of course she always felt terrible that the child died. She told me that in the last week or so it stopped moving.

Mother stopped playing piano when she got older. I asked her why she didn't play anymore and she said it was because she reached a point where she couldn't advance any further. Too bad, because I loved to hear her play. I miss her playing so much that I searched around and found a recording of many of the things she played. With it I put together a tape of her classical music favorites so that the youngsters in the family could "hear" what she sounded like.

Something no one seems to remember is that in Grandma's parlor there was a grand piano with real ivory keys and real ebony black keys. Sadly, I never heard anyone play it and the room was closed up most of the time and never used. It always fills me with wonderings about all the unanswered gestions in my mind.

It just devastates me that families break up and spread apart like they do. My grandparents died a year after we left and I've just always felt so bad about it. We never said "Good-bye", unfortunately.

Breaking up our home before we left for California was very hard for me. I couldn't bear to look at the bedroom where I had spent 17 years of my life, and I couldn't bear to look at our beautiful garden all going up in weeds. The garden had always been my refuge where I sought peace and solitude and renewal. I'm happy that I have a few pictures.

The German spelling of File was Pfeil, but Grandpa, Dad's Father Fred, complained that no one ever spelled it right, so he changed it. (The name translates literally as "arrow", denoting an arrow smith by trade.)

The story is told that my Great-Grandpa File (Pfeil) left Germany because "he didn't want his family to go through another war". His little family probably landed in New York, and it's not known how or why he migrated to Indiana - maybe with the hope to obtain land.

Also it's not known when or of what, but his wife died and he took an Indian woman into his home to care for the children and cook, etc. It's suspected that Grandpa may have been her child because he got verv tan from working in the sun, as did Dad and also John and myself. (Mason and Frances are very fair and take after Grandma's side of the family. I always thought Grandma and Frances looked alot alike, and she was her favorite.)

It's not known if Great-Grandpa married the Indian woman (probably Chippewa or Potawatomi). In those days this stuff was pretty "hush-hush" and kept in a closet.

My maternal Great-Grandfather's name was Mason Wood, and he married a lady named Ann Smith in 1852. They had a daughter named DeEtta who became the wife of Grandpa Fred J. File. I always wondered if DeEtta might be French.

Grandma's family probably landed in Plymouth or someplace near there, and I don't know why they traveled to Michigan again, probably to get land. The Government was giving away land very chep to encourage people to colonize the frontiers. Her father was a builder.

Grandma told me that when she was a little girl there were only a few houses there and "an Indian behind every tree !"

Information gleaned from both the marriage write-ups at Point Loma and his obituary notice fill in some details of Dad's life.

Born March 27, 1885, the eldest son of Fred J. File and DeEtta Wood File, he came from "old New England stock"-his ancestors being among the earliest Pilgrims to land on the American shores.

Three ancestors of a later date distinguished themselves in the Revolutionary War-one of them Daniel Wood at the Battle of Bennington.

Dad was referred to as a young businessman who came to California from Charlotte, Michigan. After graduating from Charlotte High School, he went to San Diego, where he was employed in Arsten's Department Store for several years.

He studied music (at the Point) and played in the San Diego and Los Angeles Symphony Orchestras, and was "a great lover of the best in music."

At the time of his marriage in 1918 he had been connected with the business interests of the Point Loma institution for many years.

After this marriage to Cora Mercer he returned to Charlotte with his bride.

There he was employed in the Eaton County Savings Bank for several years.

While Dad was born Mason Lawrence File, his obiturary notice reads Lawrence Carl File, and in later years he was called Carl. Here is some information about this transition.

As a bachelor, before he was at Point Loma days, he lived with his Aunt Ida and Cousin Carl in San Diego. Carl was his favorite cousin, and they used to go out every Saturday night. They would take the boat over to Coronado Island to the dance to meet girls. Dad had alot of fond memories from those days.

Sadly, Carl died of TB very young - while Dad was at the Point. This explains why Dad chose that name when he wanted to drop Lawrence (because of Lorin). Our garden (called the "back-forty") was so large that if Mother was calling out to Lawrence or Lorin you really couldn't tell which she was calling. And, of course, that's the same thing that had already happened with Mason, prompting Dad to drop his first name and go by his middle name, Lawrence.

Mother always called Dad Lawrence right down to the end, and that's the name I always used - I never thought of him as Carl. I think he used that name with John because of "Lorin", which is understandable, but it's curious to me that Mother never called Dad "Mason" even when I was very young.

My Aunt Margaret (Dad's sister) wrote his obituary, and I don't think she ever knew how Lorin was spelled - its and uncommon name. John was named after Mother's beloved professor, Doctor Lorin, Phd. from Europe. (And it;s interesting in view of that, that John was Mother's "favorite baby" and she always reved about what a beautiful, healthy child he was.)

Dad wasn't the only one with name problems. Jim's mother was "Elizabeth Hardacre", and Beth for short. Jim had a daughter by his previous marriage - "Betty Hardacre", so I was just never happy about my name - it was almost as though I didn't have any identity.

Then later with Lou's family his aunt who was sort of his mother was named Betty. Well, I couldn't stand it anymore, and that's when I became "Sandy". I always wanted to remain Betty with my family but I became Sandy with friends and acquaintances and I've felt very comfortable with that. I've always used Elizabeth for business and legal matters. So, like Dad, I solved the problem, as did John in dropping a name he didn't like.

Dad had a brother, Harold, and a sister, Margaret, who married Albert Lauritzen of Charlotte. In later years Dad went to Detroit, and finally to Port Huron where he was employed as accountant in a large wholesale firm for ten years. His hobby of late years was raising choice roses. It was in Port Huron where he spent his last weeks in the Mercy Hospital before his death June 2, 1962.

About Dad's belongings - I have a few photos of my parents and a few from childhood days of their offspring, but some precious photos were lost when Dad died. Mason drove back there but everything had been tossed out by a landlady - a real pity.

The Indians who had befriended him were blamed for taking his things, but I can't imagine their being interested in papers and photos, etc. And, of course, Aunt Margaret had no way of getting there- in time - nor Mason either, for that matter. Uncle Harold had died ten years earlier.

I wish Dad could have stayed in California and the family would have gotten his things. Mother told me he wanted to get back together with her and she said she just couldn't. She treasured her independence and wanted the status quo to remain the same. That, no doubt, had a lot to do with him going back to Michigan. He had stayed with different family members for awhile, and before leaving, visited Manhattan Beach with Mason in 1961 (shortly after Kimi was born).

Dad lived to be 77 years old, and he was buried in the family lot at Maple Hill Cemetery. As I said, it was a really beautiful place - kind of like a golf course but with lots of trees and shrubs.

I was stunned that John broke out in hives with the news of his death, which showed that Dad was more important to him than he realized.

I had to go through Mother's things in 1984, and I was "shakey" through the whole thing - I almost had a nervous breakdown. I was happy to learn that Donna wrote family because I was very "lost" at that time.

As Donna related, "At 20 to 12:00 on her 89th birthday, Grammie passed on. She smiled at the very end - she was tired and ready to move on."

In her very latter years Mother had rekindled her love of the piano, creating some hautingly beautiful little compositions.

"This Love of Mine" - that was a time of "pretty music" that I hoped would never end.....

Letters From Our Volunteers

Eaton County Republican Newspaper May 16, 1862

{We are permitted to publish the following letter from Dr. Kedzie to our County Clerk. Although rather late to publish a description of the great Tennessee battle, this account is succinct, comprehensive and interesting --- and coming from an entirely reliable and well-known citizen, it will be read with interest by our readers:}

Oberlin, May 7th, 1862

Ed. W. Barber ---- Dear Ed.: --- I have not been forgetful of my promise to write you occasionally from Dixie; but events have crowded themselves so fast upon me, and I have been so prostrated by severe sickness, that I have found it impossible to write before this time.

Our Regiment (the 12th) landed at Pittsburg Landing, (13 miles above Savannah and 18 miles from Corinth, Miss.) March 26th --- just one week after its departure from Niles.

Pittsburg Landing is merely a high bluff bank, with a good shore for receiving and unloading steamboats. The banks on that side of the river are very steep and about 150 feet high. The place or village consists of one solitary double log-house, built in the inevitable Southern style --- a room at each end and an open space in the center, just like the old-fashioned log-barns, with a bay in one end, a stable in the other, and the threshing floor in the middle. You must also add a chimney at each end, built on the outside.

There was nothing remarkable about our stay in camp for the first week excepting the amount of sickness --- mostly lung fever and diarrhea, rapidly changing to dysentery. Indeed the "Tennessee Quick-step" soon became the most fashionable movement in the army. There were at one time nearly 300 sick with dysentery in our Regiment alone.

March 30th we were ordered into Gen. Prentiss' Brigade (1st Brigade, 6th Division) and took our place in the advance line on the Corinth road, having Gen. Sherman's Division onour right, and Gen. Hurlbut's on our left. Our Brigade contained the 19th and 25th Missiouri, 12th Mich., and two or three Reg'ts from Iowa and Wisconsin. It contained 7,500 men, but had no cavalry or artillery attached.

April 4th and 5th, reports were current of skirmishing between our pickets and those of the enemy, but no attention was paid to them, no extra guards or precautions whatever. On Saturday night, I am told, our guards were not more than 1/2 mile from our line of tents.

At three o'clock Sunday morning, April 6th, I was aroused by a report brought in by a staggler that 250 Secesh cavalry were camped 2 miles from our lines, and 300 of our Reg't, and 300 of the 25th Missiouri were sent to bag them. They arrived at the designated place just at daybreak, and found themselves in front of Gen. Beauregard's advance forces, consisting of 65,000 men with 20- batteries of light artillery, and from 5,000 to 8,000 cavalry! Our forces wisely concluded that "discretion is the better part of valor," and fell back in good order upon our lines, which they reaches at 51/2 o'clock.

Then the long roll rounded, and our whole force formed in the woods about 60 rods in front of our line of tents, but without any support or reinforcement whatever, without a single cannon or any cavalry in our whole brigade. These were all at Pittsburg Landing 2 miles in our rear, and none came to our help except one battery of six pieces, (12 pounders,) which came up about 5 minutes before the final retreat, and fired three rounds.

I see there is a strong effort in certain quarters to whistle down any suggestion of surprise. The preceding statements will show whether we were not effectually surprised. The Adjutant of one of Gen. Sherman's Reg't said the first intimation they had of the approach of the enemy was their bomb-shells falling and exploding in their camps. And a member of Taylor's (Chicago) Battery told me that they had only time to wheel their guns into place when the enemy appeared in full view, and so rapidly did they press on that they could not check them in the least by firing conical shells, and had to resort at once to canister shot, which did its business so thoroughly that after the battle they counted 93 dead rebels in one pile, cut down by the shot as a mower cuts grass!

This Chicago Battery by the way was attached to Sherman's Division and did noble service through all that fearful day. They were drawn up at first within 20 feet of that old log barn known as "Shiloh Church."

Our men stood the fire of the enemy nobly for a time, but their overwhelming numbers, aided by artillery, made them irresistible, and our troops slowly fell back, contesting the ground inch by inch. Our forces had fallen back of the line of our tents, and we (the Hospital attendants) were expecting the enemy every moment, when a battery of artillery came up and opened on the rebels, checking them for a little, when Lieut. Col. Graves and Major Kimmel formed our men again and advanced to the front, when the battery retreated, as the enemy was flanking us on both sides, and all our forces were obliged to retreat.

During all this time our wounded men came in thick and fast --- some shot through the head, some through the lungs -- the bowels -- legs, &c. -in short, every conceivable form of wounds, and many of them my intimate friends. They were all crying out to me "Doctor, my leg is torn all to pieces, and I am bleeding to death! Can't you help me?" "I am shot through the lungs, and I shall die if you don't help me!" "Ho. Doctor, you know me! -- McKane My arm is all shattered, and I am suffering dreadfull -- if you could fix it a little -- and yet if anybody need you more, don't wait for me." "Oh Doctor, there come the Secesh; you won't leave us will you?" Leave them? God bless the noble felows! It would be ten time easier to die by them than to leave them. I told them

I would stay by them -- and then to hear their grateful "God bless you." Ah, Ed.! there are times when a man needs nerves of steel and a brow of brass, and vet under all this a heart tender and gushing as a woman's. The sense of danger in battle is a very fleeting impression. It all passes off in five minutes, when your ear has become accustomed to the sharp whistle of the minnie and their "spat," "spat," as they strike around you. But to look into the agonized countenances of a score of wounded men -- in every possible degree of mortal agony -- and to read in their faces that their only earthly hope is in you, and then to hear their words of thankfulness, and see their tears of gratitude, for any alleviation of their misery -- that "takes the tuck out" of me.

"We read of hearts unkind--kind words With coldness still returning: Alas! the gratitude of men Has often left me mourning."

But there come the endless line of secesh. Let me describe one. Take all the backwoodsiness of any County in the State, and concentrate it all in one person: let him have a skin lank and cadavarous as a bladder hung in the smoke for ten years; hair brown at the bottom, but fading out into a dirty, tow color at the ends; take away all education and all original thought, and add hundred fold of pride that he is above the nigger, and, he "reckons" above any nigger worshipper -- and then clothe him in butternut clothes of scanty dimensions, and you have a passable "Secesh."

Now, imagine ten thousand such bearing down upon our camp, whooping and screaming like so many Indians, and you will have a faint picture of what I saw Sunday morning, April 6. We were soon surrounded by them, and for us "surrender" was a mere matter of form; but their drunken leader was anxious for mischief, threatened to shoot us, &c; but I noticed that the revolver he handled so freely had been discharged in every barrel. However he robbed Dr Brunschweiler of his gold watch and cap, and wished to strip him effectually, but the Dr. demurred. Finally he rode off, and within two minutes one of our men planted a "minnie" in his forehead that effectually cured him of any natural tendency to thieving.

A guard was placed over us and we quietly went on taking care of our sick and wounded. In an hour, two of the rebel surgeons came to us, but not till a large number of their wounded had been brought to us, and been dressed. It made a very favorable impression upon them to find we had been so kind to their wounded; and from this time, till I was released. I received kind and courteous treatment from all the rebel officers, although many of the privates said they had a strong desire to shoot me.

The rest of the day the battle raged in the distance -- the whistle of bullets grew more infrequent, though the howling scream of bombshells over our heads continued all day. About 4 o'clock a new phase of the battle was presented, to describe which I must relate not only what I heard and saw, but also what I afterward learned. Our forces had all been driven in to the vicinity of the landing, and the prospect was fair that Beauregard would keep his promise "to water his horse that day in the Tennessee River or in Hell."

But our men had been reinforced by a division from up river (Nelson's I believe) -- and they had retreated as far as they could without being driven into the river. They were drawn up in a line about a mile long -- 80.000 on our side with some 20 batteries of light artillery; 20 Parrot guns; 10 siege guns (64lb) and one mortar, besides 2 gunboats. On the rebel side was about the same force, flushed with victory, led by Beaugard in person who rode along the whole length of their lines, swinging his sword and urging them, by every consideration, to drive the invaders into the river and secure their independence by one blow. But it was not so to be. Before him stood 80,000 men with whom "victory or death" was no rhetorical flourish; and beginning at one end of the line there glanced a stream of fire to the other extremity, bearing a hurtling shower of death, and pouring out such a sound as might awaken a continent. About every 8 seconds this mighty sea of sound would roll over and through those wild woods as though its tidal waves were swept and lashed by some mighty satellite of death!

On this sea of sound, the roar of the Gun Boats, the Light Artillery, the Parrot Guns and Siege Guns, floated as straws float on the bosom of the Mississippi! It was the most majestic sound I ever heard. It was as plain at our tent as though only 20 rods distant. Our captors heard it, and rightly interpreting its import ordered us to remove with our wounded. We were taken 2 miles, to Beauregard's headquarters, where we stayed all night, drenched and soaked in the cold rain which fell in torrents. In the morning I saw Gen. Beauregard at a small distance. He is a smallish, lithe-built, india rubber kind of man, dressed in light gray. I also saw Gen. Prentiss pass, who was a prisoner. I went out and spoke to him; he shook hands with me, told me to keep up good heart, that Gen. Buell had arrived with reinforcements, and the tables would be turned before night.

We were ordered to move on 4 miles to their General Hospital. Arrived about one o'clock. Found the Hospital to consist of a log house and the adjjacent country! It was under the care of Dr. Lyell, Medical Director of Army of Mississippi, C. S. A. He is a gentleman of the first order, as also were his assistants Drs. Mitchell, Altoon, and Cavanaugh.

We were assigned a yard for our Hospital, where we pitched our tents, arranged our blankets for beds, and by night had nearly one hundred federal wounded comfortably housed, or rather tented. They did not all belong to our regiment, but all Union soldiers were given into our care. They were far better cared for than the rebels, mainly from the gross and inhuman neglect of their wounded by the rebel hospital They had about 500 nurses. wounded and I visited their tents as I had leisure, to attend to their necessities. I never had such a conception of human capacity for suffering. It seemed like wandering amid the purlieus of Hell! I found men utterly naked, wallowing in mud like a hog in the gutter, who for three days had tasted neither food or drink, and literally begging for "a drop of water to cool their parched tongues." And on, such groans and wailing! Thro' all the night the air was vocal with screams and groans, with prayers and blasphemies, and every minute, through the night-air rang the prolonged cry "water, water." In my broken deams it seemed that the whole country had been sown with blood, harrowed in with human bones, and was springing up in a speedy crop of agony. I have often-awakened myself in the night by exclaiming in my sleep, "Such acres of groans --acres of groans"! And when I think of our poor wounded soldiers who have fallen into the hands of such wretches, it makes my blood run cold.

Tuesday evening we were re-captured by the 4th Illinois cavalry, but left without any quard, or any attempt at removal. Wednesday evening we were re-recaptured by the Texas Rangers -- a cut-throat set. Thursday and arrangement was made by the surgeons of both sides, sanctioned by Gen. J. С. Breckinridge, by which neither party should be held as prisoners of war, but were left free to remove into their own lines with their wounded and hospital attendants, at their own convenience. I came, alone, into our lines Thursday evening, and in a day or two had the balance of our hospital safely removed.

On Sunday evening, April 13, I was attacked with dysentery and billious fever, was confined to my bed twelve days, when there being no improvement in my symptoms, I was ordered aboard the hospital boat "City of Memphis." The boat was soon filled with sick and wounded, and April 27th started down the river to find a hospital into which to discharge her load, but every one was full from Paducah to Cincinnati. The Medical Director of Cincinnati said he had room for only 60, while a boat was coming with more than that number, and we had 300 on our boat. He was anxious to send as many as possible into the country. Drs. Turner and Marsh, surgeons of the boat, who had been very kind to me, urged that I ought to be sent to a more northern and anti-billious climate. Accordingly, I was furloughed for thirty days and ordered to northern Ohio. I arrived there by railroad last Friday morning, I have been very sick and look pretty shadowy now, but am slowly recovering--am able to sit up five or six hours in a day. But enough. Yours truly,

R. C. K.

Obit Mrs. Pete Mitchell

Passes at Petoskey

Mrs. Hazel Irene Mitchell, 52 years old of Petoskey, died Wednesday evening, March 15, at Lockwood General Hospital, in that city shortly after being stricken by a sudden heart attack while attending a social gathering at the community room there, where she was assisting in a public party.

She was born April 15, 1891 in Grand Rapids, the daughter of Fred & Mary Youngblood. She had been active in the church and social life of the Petoskey community for many years. She attended the Presbyterian Church, and was a member of the Presbyterian Guild, but retained her church membership in the Congregational Church of Charlotte. She was active in social events held by ladies of the Knight Templar and other Masonic bodies. She is survived by her husband, P.

T. Mitchell, city manager of Petoskey for many years; a son, Lieut. Robert Mitchell, who is with the Air Borne Engineers stationed at Richmond, VA.; an uncle Boyden Moyer of Charlotte, and other local relatives.

Funeral services were held Saturday at two o'clock at the Peters Funeral Home of Petoskey with Rev. E. P. Linnell in charge. The body was brought to Charlotte, the former home of the Mitchells, and a service was held Monday afternoon at two o'clock at the Cheney Funeral Home with Mr. Thomas W. Nadal, of the Congregational Church, officiating. Burial was at Maple Hill Cemetery.

Among those here for the funeral service were Mrs. Daisy Rainkes & Mr. Anderson of Grand Rapids, Mrs. Robert Mikesell of Toledo, Ohio, Mr. & Mrs. James Simons of Ionia, Mr. & Mrs. Glen Wigent, of Jackson, Dr. & Mrs. Carlton Dean, Mrs. Mildred Easler & William McDonald of Lansing, Mr. & Mrs. Guy Mitchell of Farmington, Mr. & Mrs. Ted Edyveen, of Detroit, Mrs. Ronald Hess & daughter Jane Helen of East Lansing, Mr. & Mrs. John Eldred, Mr. & Mrs. R. W. Blackmore of Eaton Rapids.

The son, Bob, left Wednesday on his return to North Carolina expecting to be assigned overseas duty soon.

Memorial Sermon

Delivered at the Universalist church, Charlotte, on Sunday, April 24, 1892, by Rev. Frank McAlpine, in memory of Mrs. Lucinda Clark Kilbourn, and published by request.

Beloved friends, this service is held in accordance with the wishes of our sister, who passed to spirit life on Wednesday, April 13, 1892. It was her request that the outward temple in which she had lived be laid to rest as soon as there were certain signs of dissolution, and that the memorial services be held at such time and place as would best accommodate the surviving friends. Accordingly, the burial took place on Friday last, with appropriate service, and we meet today in memory of It is the request of Sister her. Kilbourn that no studied words of eulogy be offered. The people all knew her, and she wishes only to be remembered by what she has been. In deciding the nature of this service, it is her request that I dwell upon the hope of continued existence beyond the grave, and tell her friends how much her certain consciousness of immortality has cheered and sustained her in her life work, and how resigned and happy it made her closing hours in the earth life. She also wished me to return her heartfelt thanks to the friends for their kindness to her, and ask them not to forget her aged companion.

(A poem follows and a lengthly sermon, too long to give her. If you ish to have a copy of the rest of her memorial, please write for the request.)

Frost ----After six weeks illness, at her home on Prairie street, Monday, April 18, 1892, of a complication of diseases following la grippe. Mrs. Ella E. Frost, aged 45 years.

Mrs. Frost leaves a husband, Mr. A. G. Frost, a daughter and a son, aged respectfully, 23 and 19 years. She was born in Jackson county. Four sisters and two brothers from Sandstone, Jackson county, are in the city to attend the funeral which occurs at the Universalist church at 10 o'clock today, Rev. F. McAlpine officiating. Other friends from outside the city are Mr. Frost's brother, of Lansing, and sisters from Scotts and Ithica. The Daughters of Rebecca, of which organization Mrs. Frost was a member, will assist in the funeral services.

Baughman -- At the residence of her daughter, Mrs. James Haslett, on Thursday, November 17, 1892. Mrs. Catharine Baughman aged 75 years.

Roberts -- At his home in this city on Tuesday evening, June 14, 1892. Algernon S. Roberts, aged 85 years and 16 days.

Mr. Roberts was well known as one of Charlotte's earliest pioneers.

The funeral of Mr. A. S. Roberts, whose death on Tuesday evening, June 14, was mentioned last week, was held from the residence on Thursday, under the auspices of the I.O.O.F., of which organization Mr.

Roberts was a member. Rev. Frank officiating McAlpine was the minister. The remains were taken to Kalamo for interment. Mr. Roberts has long been a familiar figure onour steets and for years it has been his custom to keep a mortuary report for the city and furnish copies of the same to the city papers for publication. He passed in his report last January with the prophetic remark that it would be his last report. Mr. Roberts had been twice married and was the father of eleven children, four of whom, with his wife, survive him. He had lived in Eaton county since 1854 and was well-known and much respected.

Tyler -- At the home of her nephew, Frank Brown, of Hamlin, Friday, March 4, 1892, Mrs. Lucy Hosford Tyler, aged 92 years, four months and 7 days.

Funeral on Monday, March 7, Rev. F. McAlpine officiating.

Taggart -- At the home of her mother, Mrs. Hannah Dow, West Lawrence avenue at 1:20 a.m., Monday, March 7, 1892, Mrs. Eliza Dow Taggart, aged 34 years, 11 months.

Though her health had been failing for two or three years, it was only toward the last of July, 1891, that Mrs. Taggart gave up her position as compositor at the Leader office, since which time she has walked down town but once. For the past seven or eight years she had worked almost continuously as compositor in the offices, successively, of the Prohibitionist, in this city and in Jackson, the Hillsdale college paper and the Charlotte Leader, in all of which places she was an able, faithful and conscientious helper. It was doubtless this close application to indoor work that developed a natural tendency to the disease which caused her death. Mrs. Taggart taught several years in the district schools of this county, and she came within a few weeks of graduating with the class of "74", from the Charlotte high school, her completion of the course being prevented by illness. She was an active member of the Young Ladies' Literary Society of those days. In 1875 she was confirmed by Bishop Gillespie and became a member of the Episcopal church, to which faith she has since been a close adherent. She was well known in the city and community and universally loved and respected. She leaves a son, Willie, eleven years of age. The funeral will be held at the residence today, at two p.m., Rector M. H. Martin officiating.

McKenny -- At his home in Dimondale, on Tuesday, June 7, 1892, of ulceration of the bowels, Albert McKenny, aged 72 years, 8 months and 19 days.

Mr. McKenny was a pioneer of the county. His wife and eight children survive him. Prof. Estabrook, of Olivet, conducted the funeral services which were held Wednesday. The remains were interred at Lansing.

Eddy -- At her home in Eaton, on sunday at 4 o'clock p.m., of asthma of the heart. Mrs. Harriet Jane Eddy, wife of Dennis Eddy, aged 58 years.

Mrs. Eddy was one of the pioneers of the county, a woman of progressive ideas, an ideal wife and throughout the county. The funeral will be take place this afternoon at one o'clock at the residence, Rev. McAlpine officiating.

Bigelow -- At the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Shear, in New Hudson, Oakland Co., at the advanced age of nearly ninety years, Mrs. Huldah Bigelow, one of the early pioneers of Eaton County.

Shepherd -- At his home in this city on Sunday afternoon, June 26, 1892, of heart failure, following a congestive chill. Austin Shepherd, aged 45-yers and 8 months.

Mr. Snepherd was born at Milford, N.Y., and was left an orphan at the age of 14, when he was adopted by his uncle, Ira Shepherd. Thev settled at Charlotte a guarter of a century ago, just before Austin arrived at his majority and where he has since become highly esteemed for many excellent qualities. On February 15, 1874, he was married to Emma E. Hart, daughter of Jesse Hart, Esq., who, with their son Paul survives him. Mr. Shepherd was a member of no church or secret order, finding in his home his most congenial society. When others were too busy to do missionary work for any good cause or to care for the sick, etc., Mr. Shepherd could always be depended upon. He was large-hearted, fond of music and firm in whatever cause commended itself to his judgement. The remains will lie in state from 10 a.m. until noon today at the M. E. church, and the funeral will occur this afternoon at 3 The services will be o'clock. conducted by Revs. Jas. W. Reid, E.G. Lewis, and George D. Lee.
